

Pivot Pulse Check

Immediate feedback that matters.

What is Pulse Check?

Pivot Pulse Check enables teachers and school leaders to administer short focused surveys - of up to 10 questions - for regular, immediate feedback.

Your Pulse Check survey can be completely customised for your audience - students, teachers or parents. To create a Pulse Check simply select from the pre-populated question banks or create your own questions.

Pulse Checks provide results immediately, giving educators fast reliable data at their fingertips. The ability to 'check in' regularly allows teachers and teams the opportunity to make and monitor small changes in response to feedback.

Check in

- On student wellbeing. Set up weekly surveys using our formulated question sets to assess how students are going and where support is required.
- With teachers. Customise questions to gauge wellbeing, work management and need for transitional support or resources.
- With colleagues. Customise surveys to prepare for planning, give feedback on recent meetings or learning strategies anonymously.
- With families. To maintain contact and check on learning support at home.

Access

- Student understanding of new content and skills. These types of Pulse Checks work with small groups or whole classes. Understand what they know and where to go next.
- Student's pre-existing knowledge and skills, such as an exit ticket system. To plan and prepare new units or modify existing ones. Understanding what students already know to establish units that are relevant and extend on students' existing knowledge and skills.
- Success of new initiatives or changes with staff or students. Customise and create questions to gain insight and plan the next direction.
- Teaching practice. Customise and create questions to gauge how teaching practice is perceived by students.

Complete a Pulse Check in a few easy steps

1. Create a new Pulse Check survey by filling in the name, description, and date you created (or intend to administer) the survey.

2. Add 5 (or up to 10) questions, either creating your own or from our pre-populated question bank.

3. Publish and share your Pulse Check survey with students with our QR code or weblink.

4. Once you have a minimum of 5 respondents, you can close the survey and see/share your results.

Tip

Used in conjunction with the Student Perception Survey, Pulse Checks provide educators with additional assessment data to monitor the impact of newly implemented strategies over shorter time frames.

What do schools say

“Pivot Pulse Check is just what we needed! It helps us monitor and report how we performed with remote learning from our students’ and parents’ perspectives. We look forward to using Pulse Check during the return to school transition and beyond for regular feedback.”

– Davin Reid, Principal, Timboon P-12 School

“Our Pulse Check results actually provided some nice information for us. I intend to make Pulse Check a regular feature from now on.”

– Tim Callaghan, Assistant Principal, Rollins Primary School
